Question: What is the application procedure for international students?

Answer: In general international applicants have to apply via uni-assist (The application and document review via uni-assist is available throughout the whole year!). More information here. All applicants for a Bachelor's degree, who did not obtain their university entrance qualification in Germany or from a school that offers the equivalent of the German Abitur has to apply via uni-assist. Uni-assist processes all international higher education entrance qualifications to determine whether applicants qualify to study any or only certain subjects in Germany. Additionally, the preliminary evaluation establishes and "translates" the foreign grades to the German grading system. To apply for the preliminary evaluation, please submit your documents to uni-assist within the relevant application period. Question: What is uni-assist and which documents do I need to submit to them?

Answer: The University Application Service for International Students uni-assist e.V. processes international student applications as an external partner for the Technical University of Munich. Uni-assist performs preliminary processing and evaluation of the applicant's university entrance qualification (for bachelor's) or master qualification materials (for master's), running a check of the applicants' certificates to determine which grades they have on the German grading system. This preliminary documentation (VPD) informs applicants whether they qualify to study all subjects (general qualification), only certain subjects (subject-restricted qualification) or postgradual studies (master's).

Be sure to check whether you need a preliminary documentation (VPD) before applying to TUM. If the document is required for your application, you need to apply for a VPD via uni-assist as well as apply to TUM directly via TUMonline. In addition, the VPD contains a conversion of all your credits and grades into the German grading system or the ECTS grading system.

Question: I am an international applicant, what is important for me to know?

Answer: *Generally speaking, your application process is the same as for national applicants. There are a few exceptions that may or may not apply to you.

If you are applying with a bachelor's degree from a country outside the European Union / Switzerland / Liechtenstein / Iceland / Norway you will have to turn in an application with Uni Assist before the end of the application period, for more details around this process please refer here. Please note that you only have to apply with Uni-Assist before the end of the application period, you can turn in the respective Uni – Assist document (VPD) at TUM once Uni – Assist has provided you with it (please send it via email directly to study@tum.de and include your applicant's number). Since the preliminary documentation (VPD) from Uni-Assist is valid for all Master degree programmes at TUM, you do not need to enter a specific programme name when applying for the documentation. Please select “alle Fächer” / “all programmes” on the Uni-Assist website.

In addition, there are a few countries where there are special requirements in place as well. You can convert your grade with this conversion formula, together with your degree program's Academic and Examination Regulations (FPSO. Please note that this tool is only intended to provide a first orientation and the results are in no way binding. Have a look <a* Question: What is uni-assist and which documents do I need to submit to them?

Answer: The University Application Service for International Students uni-assist e.V. processes international student applications as an external partner for the Technical University of Munich. Uni-assist performs preliminary processing and evaluation of the applicant's university entrance qualification (for bachelor's) or master qualification materials (for master's), running a check of the applicants' certificates to determine which grades they have on the German grading system. This preliminary documentation (VPD) informs applicants whether they qualify to study all subjects (general qualification), only certain subjects (subject-restricted qualification) or postgradual studies (master's).

Be sure to check whether you need a preliminary documentation (VPD) before applying to TUM. If the document is required for your application, you need to apply for a VPD via uni-assist as well as apply to TUM directly via TUMonline. In addition, the VPD contains a conversion of all your credits and grades into the German grading system or the ECTS grading system.

An application for a VPD via uni-assist alone does not qualify as an application for a degree program at TUM. An application via TUMonline is always necessary.

Question: I am an international applicant, what is important for me to know?

Answer: Generally speaking, your application process is the same as for national applicants. There are a few exceptions that may or may not apply to you.

If you are applying with a bachelor's degree from a country outside the European Union / Switzerland / Liechtenstein / Iceland / Norway you will have to turn in an application with Uni Assist before the end of the application period, for more details around this process please refer here. Please note that you only have to apply with Uni-Assist before the end of the application period, you can turn in the respective Uni – Assist document (VPD) at TUM once Uni – Assist has provided you with it (please send it via email directly to study@tum.de and include your applicant's number). Since the preliminary documentation (VPD) from Uni-Assist is valid for all Master degree programmes at TUM, you do not need to enter a specific programme name when applying for the documentation. Please select “alle Fächer” / “all programmes” on the Uni-Assist website.

In addition, there are a few countries where there are special requirements in place as well. You can convert your grade with this conversion formula, together with your degree program's Academic and Examination Regulations \(FPSO\). Question: What is uni-assist and which documents do I need to submit to them?

Answer: The University Application Service for International Students uni-assist e.V. processes international student applications as an external partner for the Technical University of Munich. Uni-assist performs preliminary processing and evaluation of the applicant's university entrance qualification (for bachelor's) or master qualification materials (for master's), running a check of the applicants' certificates to determine which grades they have on the German grading system. This preliminary documentation (VPD) informs applicants whether they qualify to study all subjects (general qualification), only certain subjects (subject-restricted qualification) or postgradual studies (master's).

Be sure to check whether you need a preliminary documentation (VPD) before applying to TUM. If the document is required for your application, you need to apply for a VPD via uni-assist as well as apply to TUM directly via TUMonline. In addition, the VPD contains a conversion of all your credits and grades into the German grading system or the ECTS grading system.

An application for a VPD via uni-assist alone does not qualify as an application for a degree program at TUM. An application via TUMonline is always necessary.

Question: I am an international applicant, what is important for me to know?

Answer: Generally speaking, your application process is the same as for national applicants. There are a few exceptions that may or may not apply to you.  If you are applying with a bachelor's degree from a country outside the European Union / Switzerland / Liechtenstein / Iceland / Norway you will have to turn in an application with Uni Assist before the end of the application period, for more details around this process please refer to here. Please note that you only have to apply with Uni-Assist before the end of the application period, you can turn in the respective Uni – Assist document (VPD) at TUM once Uni – Assist has provided you with it (please send it via email directly to study@tum.de and include your applicant's number). Since the preliminary documentation (VPD) from Uni-Assist is valid for all Master degree programmes at TUM, you do not need to enter a specific programme name when applying for the documentation. Please select "alle Fächer" / "all programmes" on the Uni-Assist website.

In addition, there are a few countries where there are special requirements in place as well. You can convert your grade with this conversion formula, together with your degree program's Academic and Examination Regulations \(FPSO\)
Please note that this tool is only intended to provide a first orientation and the results are in no way binding. Have a look
